Information about Humanities 2, Spring 2017

Syllabus

The syllabus is on the web site of the course. Go to the Tritoned server, tritoned.ucsd.edu; sign in with your UCSD username and password; click on Humanites 2.

The class web site contains the syllabus, maps, announcements, and slide lectures. There is also a discussion board, so you can post questions for me, for the TAs, and for your fellow students on the readings, lectures, and discussions in section.

Communications

The best way to communicate with me is by email. I will try to answer email quickly—though if you drop me a note at 2AM, don't expect an answer until the next morning.

Office Hour: I have set up an official office hour, Thursday 11:00-12:00—i.e. before class. My campus office is rather dreary; I will hold office hour at the coffee cart on the east end of Mandeville Hall. There is an outdoor area with tables by the cart. If the weather is bad, they set up tables in the East Room of Mandeville, which is just inside the door next to the cart.

If you cannot make it at that time, make an appointment to see me at another time during the week. Set up an appointment by email or come up after class.

Occasionally, I will communicate with the class by email to make an announcement or inform you of something you should know. The Tritoned platform has your UCSD email addresses in it, so I'll be communicating with you through that address.

The Components of the Course

This course has four main components: Lectures, discussion sections, readings, and slide lectures.

Grading in the course will be based on your participation in discussion section and the completion of all assignments—the papers and the final exam. To pass the course, you must complete all assigned work and participate actively in discussion sections.

See the syllabus for the weighting of the components that make up the final grade.
